Booking.com

IS ONE OF THE MOST FAMOUS DUTCH STARTUPS.
HERE ARE SOME INTERESTING FACTS:

FOUNDING

Booking.com began in 1996 when Geert-Jan Bruinsma set out to make online accommodation booking easier. Overcoming technical challenges and industry skepticism, the team's perseverance and innovation propelled the startup to success. Acquired by an American company Priceline Group in 2005, Booking.com helped to simplify travel, inspiring millions to explore the world.

INITIATIVES

- Booking.com have launched the Booking Cares Fund to support employees' volunteering efforts by providing grants to nonprofit organizations and community projects.
- Booking.com aims to raise awareness about sustainable travel opportunities and make positive change. The company regularly publishes reports on sustainable travel trends. These reports provide insights into travelers' preferences for eco-friendly accommodations and sustainable tourism experiences.

GLOBAL REACH

Booking.com is one of the largest online travel agencies (OTAs) in the world, offering accommodation booking services in over 40 languages, with listings in more than 155,000 destinations across 227 countries and territories.

As a global company headquartered in Amsterdam, Booking.com has made substantial contributions to the Dutch economy, including job creation, innovation, and attracting tourism to the Netherlands.

Tulip mania in 17th century

Tulip Mania, which occurred primarily in the Dutch Republic during the early 17th century, was one of the most famous events in Dutch economic history.

Speculative Bubble

Tulip Mania was a speculative bubble centered around the trade of tulip bulbs. Prices for tulip bulbs, particularly rare and exotic varieties, skyrocketed to extraordinary levels, fueled by intense speculation and a frenzy of buying.

Social Impact

Tulip Mania had significant social and economic repercussions. It quickly captured the minds of the Dutch population, drawing in people from all walks of life, including merchants, craftsmen, and even ordinary citizens, who saw an opportunity for quick wealth. Many individuals invested their life savings or went into debt to participate in the tulip trade.

Collapse

The tulip market eventually collapsed in 1637, leading to a sudden and dramatic crash in prices. This had bankrupted many investors. While the exact causes of the collapse are debated among economists, Tulip Mania remains a cautionary tale about the dangers of speculative bubbles and irrational enthusiasm in financial markets.
